BONUS: Access to additional content recordings exclusively for certified Q Coaches.

NOT INCLUDED: All students will select a mentor to work with to complete certification. See mentoring information below.

Q Coach Certification Mentoring Requirement

Once you have completed the distance and onsite training sessions and demonstrated mastery of the concepts, you are licensed to use the Q Effect materials to present your first workshop and to coach your first group through the Q Process™.

In order to complete the certification process, you will need to schedule and hold your first teaching and coaching sessions within one year of the training completion date.

The final step to complete your certification includes choosing a mentor and setting up a mentoring experience with him or her. There are two options available:

Basic Mentoring: $375 USD

With this option, you will have four 30-minute phone calls with your mentor. These are as follows:

- The week before you teach the workshop/class (your mentor will help you prepare to teach the course content).
- After the workshop/class and before your first debriefing session (your mentor will help you prepare to coach your first debriefing).
- After your first debriefing session (your mentor will listen to your recorded debriefing and give you feedback).
- After your third debriefing session (the mentor will listen to your recorded debriefing and give you feedback).

We also ask that you record and listen to your second debriefing session and note for yourself what areas you see for clarification or improvement.

Private Coaching: cost is negotiated with your mentor

This is a more in-depth coaching experience. Private coaching prepares you for teaching and provides you with detailed coaching feedback. For this option you will need to make a video recording of your workshop presentation or have the mentor sit in and observe. You will also record all group debriefings.

You will schedule your mentoring calls with your mentor and make payment directly to him or her. Certification is finalized once The Q Effect, LLC receives confirmation of your mastery from your mentor.

Please note: It is possible that additional mentoring may be suggested by your mentor.
